BURKETT HOUSE.

Ma. Epiron :- The tragedy, or rather suicide, at St. Xavier College has not in the least cured the propensity of the Cincinnations for tearing down buildings. Yesterday morning, upon awakening about 7 o'clock, I was startled by seeing the image of a man in the glass in my room. Upon examination, I found it was a laborer en gaged in the demolition of a fine mansion which stood towering on the N. E. corner of Vine and Third streets, the entrance to which was reached from Third street up a flight of thirty or forty steps. You probably remember the building. It was an elegant brick, two stories high, with mas sive Ionic columns in front, and would be deemed a palace almost in most any other nia for five story stone fronts-that this ancient heritage must give way and be dismantled. When the rubbish is removed the bank of earth on which it stands which is more than twenty feet above the level of Third street, will be cut down and removed, and after that they will sink a cellar some ten or twelve feet lower, and in a few weeks a massive five story stone front block will be seen looming up on the spot.

ever the city. A new feature in this fast city is the atreet railroads, which traverse the city in all directions. These are now run by horse power, but last night the experiment was tried of running them by a locomotive, and it proved a complete success. The locomotive is the invention of Mr. Latta, of then the rattling of the car, enables the corners without any trouble or risk. I was in the city and saw the first ground broken for the lines of railroads, and again I was first locomotive attached to the car on the road. These roads, by-the-way, are a great institution, and a chesp one.

This is but a sample of what is going on all

Another coincidence I can't much ad mire: I was in the city when that young man and his wife, to whom he was never married, committed murder and suicide, in which case both the murdered and the suicide got well; and on the night of my arrival this week, two shocking murders were committed. I take it as a good omen that wherever I go the Democratic party

Western mer chants, I should think, would find it to their interests to buy in this city instead of going East. But of one thing they may take due notice, those who do not come prepared to pay up old scores, will buy no goods on credit this spring.

For the Express. It is generally conceded that the system pose of determining who shall and who shall not be candidates for the People's suffrages, possesses within itself objections of a very grave character; but when those Eight years have flown, since those awest eyes objections are aggravated by a want of fairness in the mode of administration, the whole system becomes insupportable, and ought to be abolished.

When we consider the compact discipline of the Party opposed to us, and consider also that the caucus is the machinery by which they present an undivided front in all political contests, a similar kind of organization appears to us a necessity, in order to oppose them successfully; at the same time, as we profess to be a Party of principle, it becomes us to be particularly by instructing them in the Scriptures and careful that our Conventions shall be wor thy of the confidence of the People.

There is a growing dissatisfaction in the country, with the overwheming prepondmatters of that kind; and a just suspicion that selfish personal considerations, often her
